ney of Cutting his Father's Throat on Christmas Day-Young Rooney's Flight. On Christmas Day a daughter of Thomas Rooney, an ex-employee of the Street Cleaning Bureau, reported to the Thirty-seventh street police that her father had committed suicide by cutting his throat in their rooms in the second story of the tenement at 407 West Thirty-ninth street. The police found the man lying dead as described, with a pair of scissors beside the body. The widow said that he had got drunk the night before, and when she reached home from mass that morning she found him dead as they saw him. She said that he had twice before attempted suicide. There was apparently no reason to doubt either her testimony or that of the other members of the family, which was to the same effect, and Coroner Brady, who had charge of the case, satisfied himself that Rooney had committed suicide. The Catholic church of which Rooney was a member took the same view of the matter, and burial in consecrated ground was refused his body on the score of his having been a suicide.

About a week after Mr. Rooney had been found dead Coroner Brady heard vague rumore that his death was not a suicide. He did not give much credit to them, but, nevertheless, postponed the intended inquest, and waited for further developments. The police, too, heard that old Rooney had not only been murdered.

I met my daughter Julia in the hall. She told me that father was dying, and that she was going for a doctor. I went up stairs, where I found my husband jving in a pool of blood with his throat cut. There was no one else in the room. I have not seen Felix since the day of the funeral, and do not know where he is. I have been the same the day of the funeral, and do not know where he is. I have been the day of the funeral who money since the day of the funeral who may be more than the funeral who was a small penking to throw in the blood we could make it appear as if my husband had killed himself. I had no knife to give him, and said that I would have nothing to do with it. I have heard saveral stories with reference to the murder from my son. Joe and others. My husband, Joe, and Felix were quick tempered when in inquor.

The witness informally acknowledged that she knew that her husband had been murdered but refused to incriminate her son. She said to refused to incriminate her son. She said to the control of the murder from my son. Felix is naise were bloody, and he said that he and his father had had a finit. He said nothing about any cutting. He did not was himself in the witness's house to the latter's knowledge, although he may have done so. He remained but fifteen minutes. The witness saw him but once since the funeral, when Felix told him that during the fight "the old man draw out a razor and was going for him," when he managed to take the weapon away. He scoke of being affail of hurting his father. My sone of her and had a fight the old man draw out a razor and was going for him," when he managed to take the weapon away. He scoke of being affail of hurting his father. On Christmas morning Mrs. Thomas Rooney, my mother-in-law came to my house because, she said, her husband was drunk and fighting at home, and that two policemes had been at the house. She did not say long, saying that she felix uners, law and the policy had been at the house. She did not stay long, saying that she house. She did not stay lo

NORTH CAROLINA'S RESOURCES.

Gen, Thomas L. Clingman on the Agricultur and Mineral Wealth of the State.

Gen. Thos. L. Clingman, formerly United States Senator from North Carolina, who has given much attention to the development of the resources of the South, is now in the city. In a conversation on the South and its future. yesterday, he expressed himself as follows:

'As to the industrial and financial condition of the South generally I can say that there is a steady improvement. I speak more particu-larly as to North Carolina, because I know it best. In that State we struck the bottom heavily in 1865. I then thought some of our people would starve to death, but I think they all by great effort and industry escaped. Taught by the severe suffering of the latter years of the war and the period following it, they have generally worked harder and spent less than they formerly did, and there has been a steady improvement ever since.
"Now I doubt if there is a State in the Union where there is among the people less real want of the necessaries of life. If any man there was too lazy to work. I think he would be fed to save the expense of burying him. Though there are few wealthy persons among us yet, the people generally are comfortable and getting each year. They are improving their farms and houses, have gotten new working tools, and increased their live stock. Every branch of business is advancing. The grain crops are ample for our wants, and both wheat and corn are being exported. Rice culture is increasing. and the cultivation of cotton is extended up to the very base of the mountain region. Tobacco sociation and both wheat and corn further developments. The police, too, heard that old Romey had not only been murded that old Romey had not only been murded that old Romey had not only been murded, but that the murderer was his own son, Felix, who has been imprisoned several times for the several time for the several tim gallous of that wine to the acre as easily as he could dot gallous in Germany, and that he could sell it for twenty-five cents a gallon and make a profit. The scuppersong grape grows throughout that region as readily as the long-leased pines do. In fact, all the varieties of grapes that are grown in the United States do well with us. So do all grain and grass crops. One day, while riding through a field in Buncombe of more than 1,000 acres, chiefly of orchard grass and timothy, as they stood in many places I could lap their heads over the withers of a tail horse on which I was riding. This land, on the Elk Mountains, near Asheville, Mr. Woodfin said ho had bought for fifty cents per acre, cleared and fenced it for about $7 per acre, and, after making two corn crops on it, had it sown in grass several years previous to the day we were there.

"All the grasses grow well over that entire region. Mr. Winslow Smith obtained in Asheville more than four tons of cured orchard grass on a single acre at one cutting. This, however, was on a lot that had been manured. But the mountain sides, when first cleared, will afford fine grass cross as well as grain.

"With the exception of oranges and such cane sugar as is made in Louisiana, everything grown in the United States can be profitably raised in North Carolina, and I regard it as the best State for emigrants to settle in.

"There is some movement in progress to open the gold mines, and our deposits of fine iron ore are attracting some attention from capitalists. Our most profitable mining, however, is for mica. In 1868 I caused some mica mines to be opened in Mitchell Goulty, and I am told that now more than half the mica of the markets of the world is obtained in that county. It is certain that this and two or three other counties in the State. The best corundum mine in the world is situated in Macon County. Dr. Lucas, who, when I first met him, was working the emery mine at Chester, Mass., has for several years been operating this corundum mine in the world is situated

The Committee on Organization of the United States International Commission waited upon Gen. Grant yesterdy morning to hear his formal response to the tender of the Presidency of the Commission. The committee met in Gen. Grant's parlor at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Those present were the Rev. Dr. J. P. Newman. Cornelius N. Bliss, Algernon S. Sullivan, James Talcott W. A. Cole Henry G. Stebbins, ex-Gov. Crawford of Kansas, Col. Albert Akers of Tennessee, Prof. James H. Smart of Indiana, and Edwards Pierrepont. Mrs. Grant was also present. The proceedings were somewhat in-formal. Mr. W. A. Cole, on behalf of the committee, reported to Gen. Grant that he had been mittee, reported to Gen. Grant that he had been chosen unanimously to the office of President of the Commission.

Gen. Grant repoiled that he had signified to some of the committee before the formal election that, with the understanding he had of their arrangements, he would accept, if he was elected. He would not be able to devote all the attention which he desired to give to the Commission for the present, owing to other engagements. But when his personal presence at the meetings became necessary he would be kin operations it was necessary that a certain sum of money must be raised, and inquired of Mr. Cole replied that such was the fact.

Gen. Grant said that under such circumstances he supposed that there would be no formal meeting of the Commission.

Mr. Cole said that meetings of the Committee on Finance would be necessary in order to carry out their piedge to raise the necessary funds.

meeting of the Executive Committee on Tuesday next.

Gen. Grant said he would be in Albany on Tuesday, and could not be present at the meeting of the committee on that day.

Mr. Cole remarked that as soon as they got the money they would go to work.

Gen. Grant said that he understood that $1.000.000 was required to be subscribed before they could begin operations.

Mr. Cole replied that although it was necessary to raises $1,000.000 at first, he had no doubt that $4,000.000 would be speedily raised.

Congratulatory, laudatory, and patriotic little speeches were made by Messrs. Crawford, Akers, and others, and the meeting dissolved into a general hand-shaking and conversation. The Executive Committee of the Commission met in the afternoon at the office 317 Broadway. Henry G. Stebbins was chosen permanent President, Wm. A. Cole Vice-President, and Thomas McEirath Secretary. The Secretary was directed to draw up a circular, to be sent throughout the several States for the purpose of calling attention to the project of the Exhibition and procuring cooperation. A committee of three was appointed, with Algernon S. Sulof calling attention to the project of the Exhibition and procuring cooperation. A committee of three was appointed, with Algernon S. Sullivan as Chairman, to have charge of national registration. This committee will also have charge of the question of opening and closing the Exhibition. The Executive Committee decided to meet every Wednesday afternoon. The Finance Committee held a brief meeting, but there was no further report as to subscriptions except that they were progressing satisfactorily.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 .- Senator Hoar of Massachusetts to-day, by request, introduced a bill " to provide for retired and retiring Presidents." It proposes to pay annually to every ex-President of the United States a sum equal to one-fourth of the salary paid him while in office. The petition presented with the bill is signed by J. M. Forbes, Leverett Saltonstali, E. R. Hoar, and ten other citizens of E. R. Hoar, and ten other citizens of Boston. They represent that "history has transmitted to us many sad records of the sufferings of our earlier Chief Magistrates from insufficient pecuniary means during their decining years;" that "public opinion fully recognizes that it is beneath the dignity of a great nation, after calling upon its best men for their services during the prime of their lives, to neglect making any provision for them after their retirement from the chief office of the nation;" and the petitioners therefore "urge that immediate action be taken by Congress for a suitable provision for our retired gress for a suitable provision for our retired and retiring Presidents."

There were loar passengers in the coach, two of whom were ladies. Nothing was taken from the ladies, but a small amount of money was obtained from the men. One of the passengers, C. A. Winters, a merchant at Brackett, being warned in time, concealed $1.300 in a door panel, which escaped observation. The mail bare were gut over and rifled. SHEPHERD COWLEY RELEASED.

His Imprisonment Ended and his Pine Pald-His Deposition from the Ministry.

Warden Fox of the penitentlary entered the Clerk's office of the General Sessions yes terday afternoon and handed to Chief Clerk Sparks a certificate of deposit for $250, issued by the Chemical National Bank, and payable to the bearer. He explained to Mr. Sparks that the certificate represented the fine imposed upon the Bev. Edward Cowley, formerly the manager of the Shepherd's Fold, who was convioted in the General Sessions, before Recorder Smyth, on the 20th of February, 1880, of endangering the life of Louis Victor, a child inmate of the Fold, by witholding from him proper food.

Smyth, on the 20th of February, 1880, of endangering the life of Louis Victor, a child inmate of the Fold, by witholding from him proper food, clothing, medicine, and medical attendance, and sentenced by Recorder Smyth to imprisonment in the penitentiary for one year and to pay a fine of $250. Mr. Sparks sent Court Officer Thomas Cole to the Chemical Bank with the certificate, and he returned speedily with $250. Mr. Sparks hen gave the Warden a receipt relevang him of all further responsibility in regard to the fine.

Warden Fox said that he received the certificate on Monday, and as he was fully assured from the standing of the persons who presented it that the certificate was good, he released Mr. Cowiey. The only drawback upon Mr. Cowley's satisfaction at regaining his liberty seemed to be the knowledge that his fine will be turned over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, by whose efficiers the Foldwar raided, and at whose instance the prosecution for cruelty to Louis Victor was instituted. The Warden was averse to giving the names of the persons from whom he received the certificate of deposit, as they did not desire publicity. It is understood, however, that they are connected with the Protestant Episcopal Church, to the ministry of which Mr. Cowley belongs.

Through the usual commutation of two months to a prisoner whose conduct is good, Mr. Cowley's term of imprisonment expired on the lat inst. But he was unprepared then to pay the fine, and, according to the terms of his sentence, stood committed a day for each dollar. Mr. Cowley's was tried upon one of twenty-five indictiments found by the Grand Jury upon the testimony of children rescued from the Fold. The late District Attorney Pholps presecuted in person, assisted by the present District Attorney, Mr. Rolins, and the trial was long and exciting. The prosecution, particularly the summing up, was recarded as the greatest effort of Mr. Phelps died at about midnight on the 31st uit, only a few moments before the beginning of the da right hand. He died almost instantly.

Wirsing commenced business as a butcher fifteen years ago in the house in which he killed himself. He was very prosperous, and made money rapidly. He invested it in real estate until he became the owner of the ferrotory brich busidits, in which he did business and also of several other houses in the victurity. It was known that he was ambitious to amass a tortine, but was continually haunted with the idea that he was about to less what he had acquired. This hallicination took such complete possession of his mind that it amounted almost to insanity. Nothing unusual was noted in his appearance yesterday morning when he entered his shop.

A Risky Way of Getting Money.

Mrs. Agnes O'Brien of 217 West Eleventh street was walking up Second avenue when two men came up to her and said her purse had been stolen. Mrs. came up to her and said her purse had been stolen. Mrs. O'Brien put her hand in her pocket and found she had heen robbed. One of the men who saw the robbers met Policeman Martin Carroli and pointed out a young man, who was walking up the avenue, as the probable third: Carroll saw the young man stoop down and bury something in a snow bank. The robleman arrested him, and at the same time kicked the missing purse out of the snow. The prisoner, who was respectably dressed, said he was William Carroll. He was held for trial.
